I read on the Frackin' Universe wiki that solar panels can make power with player-placed lights, like cheap lights. I've placed all sorts of lights near a solar panel, and they make 1 Watt at ...

A panel that generates electricity from solar energy. This photovoltaic panel generates electricity as it absorbs solar light. This panel draws in energy from the stars to generate power! Panel createsss ...

This guide is designed to give players a view at how their power production will start in a new game, develop through various level of exploration and reasearch, and point out some basic ...

Efficient earlygame power generator? I wanna know your guys' best earlygame strats when it comes to power generation

Ship based solar panels are convenient because they're never "off", which is certainly handy even if they provide less maximum power that way. Easier to plan around 24/7 decent power than great power 12/7.

Solar Panel doesn't produce any power during the night (even if the area seems well-lighted), when underground (where Survivor players can't beam up), when submerged (in liquid or ...

Solar generators produce unlimited energy with no fuel requirement, they, however, require a constant amount of light and a considerable amount of space. Solar generators do not work with artificial light ...

Solar Panel is a wirable switch object found as treasure in space stations and small ship microdungeons in space. It triggers a signal for dim light and a signal for bright light to wired mechanisms.
